Field of Proposal: Innovation

Title of Proposal: Introduction to Micromachining

Abstract: A micro- system is an intelligent miniaturized system comprising sensing, processing and/or actuating functions. Micro engineering refers to the technologies and practice of making three dimensional structures and devices with dimensions in the order of micrometers. Micromachining is the basic technology used for the production of miniaturized parts and components. Micromachining resulted in the fabrication of a broad class of devices whose defining characteristics were micrometer-scale feature size and electromechanical functionality, and these systems are collectively called as MEMS.

Objective and level of activity: Seminar

Project Impact: The seminar aims to give a deep understanding of the different micromachining technologies presently available and there application in product manufacturing. The seminar is indented to give an idea about some of the technologies like EDM, ECM, Laser Beam, Ultrasonic machining.

Mechanical Electrical Plumbing Design & Drafting

Add rows as required

Abstract

Mechanical, electrical, and plumbing (MEP) refers to these aspects of building design and construction. In commericial buildings these aspects are often designed by an engineering firm specializing in MEP. MEP design is important for design decision-making, accurate documentation, performance and cost-estimation, construction planning, managing and operating the resulting facility. As with other aspect of buildings, MEP drafting, design and documentation were traditionally done manually. Computer-aided design had some advantages over this, in some instances including 3D modeling. Building information modeling provides holistic design and parametric change management of the MEP design.
